

News From Your TOWN HALL

Clerk Dutel: Wallis announces that he has had an unusual amount of customers for homestead exemption and has run out of blanks several times, as has the County office.

In case you don't know it, we consider homestead exemption "political pay," unfair, impractical and a snare for promiscuous politicians.

In Belle Glade there is an exemption of $75,000 out of a total valuation of $200,000—better than one-third. Of this $559,000 is for homestead exemption. There probably should be $50,000 exemptions for "homesteads" in Belle Glade to widows, orphans, aged and infirm—not to most of those receiving it.

The politicians would have you believe you're getting some thin for nothing. Who pays the bill for running the City, County and State governments? You are going to pay someday.

There's a carnival in town with its $1,000 license fee paid by two occasions, received for the privilege of selling. It is reliably reported that there are 150 booths set up in town, $200 apiece, if caught, could hurt the fine and forfeiture fund any.

The fine and forfeiture fund this February is $12,400 as against $15,000 the same time last year and against an estimate of the Budget Commission of $5,000.

The gamblers in the carnival pay $1,000 for the privilege of selling on the streets pay $200 each, and are stopped. "It's according to your tastes," said the farmer as he kissed the cow.

Sgt. Louis Kirchman Injured In France

A telegram was received on Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Kirchman from the adjutant general advising them that their son, Teal Louis Kirchman, was slightly wounded in France on March 15. Before shipping overseas six weeks ago, Louis had served four months in the Panama Canal Zone and was in France with the 7th Army and 247th Infantry.

OPA To Regulate Apparel And House Furnishings Here

Under recent regulations promulgated by the OPA, retailers must prepare a chart known as a "base data pricing chart" showing cost percentage mark-up and selling price and must be filed with the OPA office by April 20, 1945.

After May 24 a retailer must not sell this merchandise unless it has a receipt from the OPA for the prepared chart. There must be on file invoices from the wholesaler in support of your chart.

For penalties you may find your license revoked, fined, imprisoned and other dire results meted out.

A meeting was held here Wednesday with OPA officials with Price Panels from around the town in an effort to familiarize them with the new regulation.

Recreation Council To Be Set Up By Town Commission

BPWC Suggestion To Be Favorably Acted On by Town Commission

Miss Sara Creech, President Mrs. Katherine Harris as Chairman and Mrs. Med Scott Brown as committee-woman, have on behalf of the Business and Professional Women's Club, submitted to the Town Commission a plan for a community Council for handling the recreation and park activities.

The Commission, Wednesday night, received the suggestion with favorable comment and a decision to put it into effect.

The recommendation is "that a permanent body known as the Recreation Council be set up and recognized as an authoritative and responsible directly to the Commissioners."

"That the council be composed of the Commissioner of Parks (now Mr. Warren) and one representative from each of the following organizations: Rotary, Women's Club, BYPC, Girl Scout Council, Boy Scout Council and the Playground Director."

It is recommended that these clubs appoint or elect only an individual who is definitely interested in recreational and park advancement and that they be selected for a period of one year.

The proposed Council would set up by-laws, okayed by the Town Commission, employ a qualified Playground Director, set up a budget for approval of the Commission, with collection and disbursement of the funds to be done by the Council with a direct accounting to the Town Commission.

The Town Commission is writing the clubs mentioning asking their own cooperation and expressions concerning the plan with an idea of getting it going as soon as practicable.

Civic Clubs Praised For Latin American Activities

Mr. Delis is connected with the Okelanta Growers and Planters and is contributing to the better Pan American relations thru his schools in Spanish held under the auspices of the Legion and Rotary each week at the school house.

There are approximately 35 pupils, from 10 to 50 and several who have attended the classes regularly are able to converse in Spanish quite fluently. Colloquial Spanish is taught with the idea of practicability and not schools or Universities. It is complimentary to this work.

There is no charge and the only requirement is willingness to learn, attendance at classes and application to the job.

As a Puerto Rican, a proud American citizen, I assure you that for the next fifty years the United States would face South America.

For the past sixteen years the United States has done much to overcome the results of years of "wielding the big stick" in the countries to the south. However the last year something reactionary has crept into our relations with Latin America, and is doing us great harm and causing us to be regarded with uneasiness and suspicion, thus tending to undo the results of years of efforts in building up a feeling of trust toward the "Colossus of the North."

Bringing representatives of the Pan-American countries together will help to better understanding in our future relations.

More than ever, therefore, the intelligent services of private organizations, such as the Lions Club, the Rotarians and Legion, entirely divorced from governmental activities, are needed. Latin Americans constantly tell me how impressed they are with these organizations, with no axes to grind, but to practically represent good will on the part of the people of the United States.

A governmental agency makes no such impression; its work is taken for granted by other nations as the above mentioned, can do about true Inter-American solidarity and cooperation, economically and culturally, with sufficient political agreement to assure peace in the Western Hemisphere.

SERVICE MEN who FIGHT and WRITE

An explosion which occurred while this ship was fighting a fire on one of our aircraft carriers resulting from an enemy bomb. His death was instantaneous and without suffering. It was my earnest hope that you will take comfort in the fact that he died as a brave man, the service of his country, not only in the midst of combat with the enemy but while this ship was on a mission of "humanitarian rescue". Mrs. Still also has another brother, PFC. Milfred Walls, who is serving with the Army in the European theater. He was wounded in action in France on December 26, according to word from the War Department.

K. B. ELDON S 1/c "Am receiving the Herald now and really appreciate getting it. There is nothing like getting off watch and settling down with the latest Herald (usually two weeks old) and enjoying every word of it. Hope some of the gang will write to me. Please give them my address as I have lost track of all of them and would enjoy letters from my old pals. If this letter is printed I hope Jimmy Allen reads it so he will know I am still around and will write to me. Bernard is aboard the U. S. S. Odom with a New York address."

CPL. MILTON GIESE Corporal Giese writes that he likes the Infantry fine and is now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Georgia after moving around for the past two months and would like the Herald sent to his present address.

SGT. ERNEST STAFFORD Serving as section leader of a crew of Army stevedores who work in the holds of cargo and liberty ships at one of the large ports in France, Sergeant Ernest Stafford was commended along with other leaders and his officer for their excellent teamwork and speed in unloading and efficient discharge of cargo.

SGT. JUNIUS HARRIS "Somehow the war seems different and more personal than it was in France, Belgium or Luxembourg. There, every man, woman and child is our sworn enemy, pledged to kill us and we know they all have brothers, husbands, and sons fighting us and killed by us. Of course they blame us for all the sorrow and misery that has come to them and they are right. We are causing it. But we know they richly deserve it all and more, and they don't. They feel no guilt for what Germany has done and is doing and they accept defeat calmly because they are told by their leaders that it is only temporary and soon the American capitalists will be driven from the 'Jolly' soil and made to pay for their crimes."

Junius Harris Is Reported Seriously Wounded In Germany

Mrs. Katherine Harris received a telegram Sunday morning from the War Department that Junius was "seriously wounded on March 12th in Germany and that his future address would be at some hospital."

Absence of Rain Makes White Fly Menace Loom Large For Spring

The increasing beet accounted for 244 of the 577 total ear movement this past week, with only 24 cars going to canneries in bulk. The price is still weak; little indication of any wakening.

Celery has taken several small advances during the week on account of the lessening of shipments from other sources.

Escarole enjoyed a respectable activity with 68 cars during the week.

Words Of Wisdom

"Whatever will be possible centuries ahead, it is not at this stage in our social evolution that we can dispense with the incentive of private enterprise. If we believe in the preservation of the freedoms as the inspiration of our fighting, we can only say that, in the broadest sense, freedom of private enterprise is the basis of all the other freedoms."—G. L. Wood, Dean of the faculty of commerce, University of Melbourne, Australia.

Don't Hobble Oil Industry

One of the nation's leading oil men, when asked his opinion as to the total of our potential oil reserve, said: "I do not have the remotest idea, and neither does anyone else. But on the basis of past experience, it appears that we have explored only about half of the potential oil lands in the continental United States." He then pointed out that the only way to find out what is in the unexplored part is to drill holes and see.

"Given reasonable encouragement and without unnecessary deterrents by governmental interference, it is the consensus of our industry that, if necessary, it can supply the people of the United States with oil from within its borders for many years to come. The oil industry is concerned about the present situation, for it is a stupendous job to supply the enormous war requirements, and we don't like to have to turn on the civilian supply. The present situation is one of concern because, momentarily, we are using oil faster than we are making new discoveries. The primary reason for that is that we are not drilling enough exploratory wells, and the reason for that are a shortage of materials due to other war demands for these same materials; a serious shortage of skilled manpower; and a frozen price structure which we do not think sufficiently encourages wildcatting. We cannot find oil unless we hunt for it. Every oil man is convinced that, as soon as the restrictive influences I mention disappear, new and rich oil reservoirs will be found."

If the American oil industry had not been developed to the highest state of efficiency before the war, it could not have even begun to carry on the global war in which this nation is engaged. That in itself should be sufficient warning that our national oil policy should be one which not merely conserves our oil resources, but which encourages their development along increasingly progressive and scientific lines.

Tax Juggling

All over the country communities are waking up to the fact that electric properties, supposedly owned by cities, are in reality financed largely by individuals who are attracted to municipal securities by their tax-exemption lure. Also, the Federal government is finding out that cities and towns are encouraged to buy highly-taxed private utilities by smooth promoters who make a commission on the sale of bonds. The main inducement to consummating such a deal is the argument that a city plant can escape all Federal taxation, and reduce electric rates accordingly. The person who really gets gipped is the taxpayer. For no matter how much money the city, county, state or Federal treasuries lose through tax exemptions, they go on collecting the taxes necessary to maintain government, from the remaining taxpayers—this means that somebody else has to pay higher taxes for the tax parasites that fail to carry their share of the public tax burden.

It would be just as logical to exempt privately-owned utilities from taxation in order that they might apply such savings to reducing rates. By that method communities could get the rate reductions they seek under public ownership without the community being burdened with an enormous debt. It is unfair to the general taxpayer either way, but fairness seems to be no part of the plan to socialize the electric industry.

Taxation By Feudal Overlords

Following the lead of Mr. Petrillo, head of the musicians' union, who successfully defied the government in his demand to levy a tax on every phonograph record, to the tune of some $4,000,000 a year, Mr. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, now demands a union tax of 10 cents on each ton of coal mined, to enable the union to provide "economic protection" for the workers. As the coal mines produced over 600,000,000 tons of coal in 1944, the public would have to dig up some $60,000,000 a year for Mr. Lewis' tax.

If this policy of permitting unions to tax production, goes unchecked, the people will be paying approximately

THE ROAD TO SERFDOM

Have We Unwittingly Set Out on the Same Path That Led to Hitler in Germany?

(Editor's Note: The disturbing thought that while fighting Hitler abroad the United States and England are heading toward a form of Hitlerism at home is presented in the timely devoted book, "The Road to Serfdom," by Friedrich A. Hayek.

Dr. Hayek draws his comparisons from observations made at first hand during his long life in Europe and half in England and the United States; he has been in Germany since 1931. He has been Professor of Economic Science at the University of Vienna and is now a British subject.

"MANY features (economic and political) which were regarded as 'typically German' are now equally familiar in America and England, and many symptoms point to a further development in the same direction. The increasing veneration for the state, the fatalistic acceptance of inevitable trends, the enthusiasm for 'organization' of everything (we now call 'planning')—

"Few recognize that the rise of fascism and Nazism was not a result of the preceding period but a necessary outcome of these tendencies. Many of the leaders, from Mussolini down, began as socialists and ended as fascists or Nazis."

"In the democracies at present, many who sincerely hate all the evils of Nazism and Communism for ideals whose realization would lead straight to the abhorred tyranny."

Power is the Penalty
"Many have the tragic illusion that by depriving private individuals of the power they possess in an individual system, and transferring it to the state, they thereby establish power. What they overlook is that by concentrating the power in the hands of some small body power formerly exercised independently by many as an amateur is created infinitely greater than any that existed before in the hands of private individuals. Economic power can be an instrument of coercion. But when economic power is centralized as an instrument of political power it creates a degree of dependence and servility which is not only a danger to the individual, but to the community, capitalism and individualism."

"By the time Hitler came to power, liberalism was dead in Germany. And it was socialism that was attacking liberalism and individualism. By the time Hitler came to power, liberalism was dead in Germany. And it was socialism that was attacking liberalism and individualism."

"The general endeavor to achieve security (of the second kind) by restrictive measures supported by the state has in the course of time produced a transformation of society—a transformation in which Germany has led."

"Adequate security at present will have to be one of our main goals. But nothing is more fatal than the present fashion of extolling security at the expense of freedom. We must regain the courage which Benjamin Franklin expressed in a phrase:

"Those who would give up essential liberty to purchase a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."

"It is not those who cry for more planning who show the necessary courage (for building a better world) nor those who can think of nothing better than to imitate Hitler."

"It is those who cry loudest for a planned economy who are most completely under the sway of the ideas which have created this war and most of the evils from which we suffer."

The Farmer and War Bond Purchases
By Charles W. Holman, Secretary
The National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation

AMERICAN farmers have a great deal more at stake in financing War Bonds than simply a patriotic urge to assist in financing the war so that it may be prosecuted to an early and victorious conclusion. Modern war demands governmental expenditures far in excess of those which may be met by current revenue receipts. This means Government borrowing. It is a large part of the borrowing is through commercial banks and additional inflationary spending power is created through the expansion of credit. On the other hand, if the borrowing is largely from individuals much of the interest funds are drained off. Hence, the pressure on prices rises, suffering from unusually large funds bidding for limited amounts of goods and services is relieved, and inflation retarded.

A tremendously increased agricultural production and more efficient building materials received above those paid by farmers have raised the net income of all United States farmers from the 1935-36 average of $4.7 billion to $8.5 billion in 1941, $9.4 billion in 1942, and an estimated $12.5 billion in 1943. With available supplies of farm machinery replacement and building materials limited, Agriculture has a fund available for either retirement, savings, ready liquidated for future purchase of machinery, buildings, etc., or for present investment in land.

A marked decrease in farm mortgages in recent years indicates that much of this fund has been properly applied to debt retirement. However, activity in land sales and a very recent increase in land values demonstrate that farmers are probably diverting a large part of this fund into land purchases. From March 1, 1943, to March 1, 1944, average land values per acre rose 15 percent, with the larger part of the rise taking place in the last four months of the period. The increase during this four-month period was the highest on record, being 20 percent greater than the average monthly rate of increase for the 1939-40 boom year. Average values per acre have increased more than one-third in the past 3 years. In the 1935-36 period the rise was about the same.

It appears that an overcapitalization of probably temporarily high farm commodity prices is in process just as in World War I. Large mortgage debts incurred now, at high levels of income, will prove disastrous when both total agricultural production and prices are stable. Land values are based on the prospect that farm labor and other costs will require a relatively large return. However, the return for land less, the logical course for land values at present would appear to be downward rather than upward.

Therefore, it appears that farmers would do well to invest every available dollar, beyond that needed for debt retirement, in Government securities. This would be held against the day when necessary farm replacements will be available and when farm values will have become more stable. In this way the individual farmer may assist in hastening the day of return of his son, and also have capital available to help finance him in ventures of his own office. U. S. Treasury Department clearly a free country from a country under arbitrary government, than the observance in the former of the principles known as the Rule of the Law. This means that government is bound by rules that it cannot violate at will and must announce beforehand.

Arbitrary Despotism
"Socialist economic planning necessarily involves the opposite. The planning authority cannot tie itself down in advance to general rules, and in this way it can legalize arbitrary action."

"By giving government unlimited powers the most arbitrary rule can be made legal; and in this way democracy may set up the most complete despotism imaginable."

"On the matter of security, the author distinguishes between two kinds—the kind that guarantees sustenance for all; and the kind that seeks to preserve the economic position of one individual or group against others, as in the case of organized capital which supports monopolies and organized labor which reserves employment for the organized worker to the exclusion of the unorganized."

Transmission, differential, final drive, power take-off and all other vital parts are all oiled... all oil-lubricated with only one oil level to watch. A swinging drawbar that helps swing the tractor around on short turns with full load, that locks itself when backing. A pulley where it belongs for easy beltting and lining up. The Farmer and War Bond Purchases
By Charles W. Holman, Secretary
The National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation

AMERICAN farmers have a great deal more at stake in financing War Bonds than simply a patriotic urge to assist in financing the war so that it may be prosecuted to an early and victorious conclusion. Modern war demands governmental expenditures far in excess of those which may be met by current revenue receipts. This means Government borrowing. It is a large part of the borrowing is through commercial banks and additional inflationary spending power is created through the expansion of credit. On the other hand, if the borrowing is largely from individuals much of the interest funds are drained off. Hence, the pressure on prices rises, suffering from unusually large funds bidding for limited amounts of goods and services is relieved, and inflation retarded.

A tremendously increased agricultural production and more efficient building materials received above those paid by farmers have raised the net income of all United States farmers from the 1935-36 average of $4.7 billion to $8.5 billion in 1941, $9.4 billion in 1942, and an estimated $12.5 billion in 1943. With available supplies of farm machinery replacement and building materials limited, Agriculture has a fund available for either retirement, savings, ready liquidated for future purchase of machinery, buildings, etc., or for present investment in land.

A marked decrease in farm mortgages in recent years indicates that much of this fund has been properly applied to debt retirement. However, activity in land sales and a very recent increase in land values demonstrate that farmers are probably diverting a large part of this fund into land purchases. From March 1, 1943, to March 1, 1944, average land values per acre rose 15 percent, with the larger part of the rise taking place in the last four months of the period. The increase during this four-month period was the highest on record, being 20 percent greater than the average monthly rate of increase for the 1939-40 boom year. Average values per acre have increased more than one-third in the past 3 years. In the 1935-36 period the rise was about the same.

It appears that an overcapitalization of probably temporarily high farm commodity prices is in process just as in World War I. Large mortgage debts incurred now, at high levels of income, will prove disastrous when both total agricultural production and prices are stable. Land values are based on the prospect that farm labor and other costs will require a relatively large return. However, the return for land less, the logical course for land values at present would appear to be downward rather than upward.

Therefore, it appears that farmers would do well to invest every available dollar, beyond that needed for debt retirement, in Government securities. This would be held against the day when necessary farm replacements will be available and when farm values will have become more stable. In this way the individual farmer may assist in hastening the day of return of his son, and also have capital available to help finance him in ventures of his own office. U. S. Treasury Department clearly a free country from a country under arbitrary government, than the observance in the former of the principles known as the Rule of the Law. This means that government is bound by rules that it cannot violate at will and must announce beforehand.

Arbitrary Despotism
"Socialist economic planning necessarily involves the opposite. The planning authority cannot tie itself down in advance to general rules, and in this way it can legalize arbitrary action."

"By giving government unlimited powers the most arbitrary rule can be made legal; and in this way democracy may set up the most complete despotism imaginable."

"On the matter of security, the author distinguishes between two kinds—the kind that guarantees sustenance for all; and the kind that seeks to preserve the economic position of one individual or group against others, as in the case of organized capital which supports monopolies and organized labor which reserves employment for the organized worker to the exclusion of the unorganized."

Tuesday-Wednesday brings Jon Hall and Evelyn Ankers, assisted by Leon Errol, John Carradine, Gale Sondergaard, Lester Mathews and many other featured players offering "The Invisible Man's Revenge," which was designed to bring shivers and chills to the spine of the bravest. So 's said. However, I know you will enjoy this picture.

Short subjects round out this interesting program, and, of course, the news reel with the latest events on the European front.

Thursday-Friday brings a double header and both of them musical shows.

First one up is Olson and Johnson's "Ghost Catchers." Some of these boys and some don't. However, in their favor this time is the cast that surrounds them. Here they are: Leo Carrillo, Andy Devine, Lon Chaney, Gloria Jean, Martha O'Driscoll, Walter Catlett, and Morton Downey. "The song world's favorite tenor," Ella Mae Morse, Radio's blues-hot honey of song and Kirby Grant and his orchestra.

The second one up is "Troadero" which stars Rosemary Lane and Johnny Downs. Story is woven around a famous night club by the name of the show's title and it is running over with musical numbers and comedy. You'll like it.

Saturday brings "Wild Bill" Elliott and "Gabby" Hayes in a new picture under the title of "Hidden Valley Outlaws" which is said to be well acted, so we expect you will get a run for your money.

See you at the movies—Mal

Serimmg Ends Spring practice

A very successful three weeks of spring practice has just been completed by a group of about 20 boys. The inexperienced boys did remarkable work and they are to be commended. A serimg was held on Wednesday afternoon between two fairly evenly matched teams.

The following boys made up the Blue team: Backs, Billy Joe Leathers, Billy Bearden, Walter Cobb, Carroll McDonald; Ends, Ray Kent, Ward Harrison, Dennis Deaton, Lloyd, Bill Jeffries, LeRon Williams; Guards, Bob Mathews, Nelson LeRon Williams and Bill Jeffries. Center, Harvey Ashley. The Gold team was made up of the following: Backs, Joe Nelson; Center, Harvey Ashley; Ends, George Wedgworth, Bill McClatchey; Tackles, Junior Stacy, Harold Wilcox; Guards, Richard Pike, Ed Koffman; Center, Jewel Bass. Earnest Pike was a substitute. Bearden and Koffman changed sides all the time; Bearden playing offense and Koffman defense.

The Gold team defeated the Blue team 7-0. Bearden made the touchdown and Cherry the extra point. Inasmuch as most of the boys were inexperienced, this practice was a grand success. Most of the boys are looking forward to a two weeks' vacation at the football camp in Central Florida this summer.

Girl Scouts

The Girl Scouts of Troop 1 met Friday afternoon in the Girl Scout Hut. An over night camping trip to Fishing Creek was planned for April 6. Mr. and Mrs. Shelley Connell and Miss Daisy Wilder, their leader, are going with them. Some of the other mothers are going also but they have not been decided upon as yet.

ANTHONY'S SHOES are SILENT SALESMEN

This grand old slogan helped put Anthony's store definitely in the minds of the people of South Florida. Different people interpreted the slogan in different ways . . . the negro wheelchair man interpreted it to mean that Anthony's shoes didn't squeak!

Anthony's shoes were properly fitted as early in the history of South Florida as any shoes sold. Shoes properly fitted wear one third longer than the same shoes improperly fitted.

We bought the best shoes money and experience could buy. We added the element of proper fitting so that customers would get better wear and more comfort.

The same customers came back year after year for more of the same shoes . . . hence the shoes sold themselves and became silent salesmen.

"I would like to pass on to your subscribers the following story, which tells of antics displayed by a common mixed domestic hen. Perhaps the reason I was so impressed was due to my past experience with various kinds of poultry. Never before have I witnessed anything quite so strange as this.
"This story took place fairly recently on a tropical mid-Pacific island, shortly after that and others had been taken from Japanese possession. The island is approximately a half mile long, two hundred yards wide and was only a little above sea level. When first visited, the island was an Eden of tropical splendor, with an abundance of coconuts, palm, bread fruit, wild fig, morinda, pandanus and kamani trees, also dense growth.
"The most striking thing was its peculiar avifauna that consisted of a number of widely mixed domestic chickens. Some apparent traces were that of Rhode Island Red, Plymouth Rock, Penciled Wyandotte and Frizzled. Their pure lineage, however, must have been very remote. The chickens were no doubt property of natives who had moved on to other islands. It is interesting to note these birds have been in the habit of foraging for their own food. No doubt this has been the policy for generations.
"Not so long ago I saw an old hen raise her entire brood of chicks, losing none from natural causes. Their complete diet would have to be chosen from the following: coconuts which large crabs had opened for them, lizards, small crabs, snails and fallen fruit from the trees most abundant. There were no other food sources. The birds were able to speak of, and the only fresh water supply is that which is caught in sea shells on plants from the frequent showers.
"Many of the birds were of a variety, but obviously has been a sufficiency. To prove this point—many nests of eggs have been found, and all of the food looked well fed. T. me, this indicates an ample supply of food and water.
"I have given you only a few of the interesting biological features of one of our tropical islands, and in closing will relate to you this short story.
"One day while scouting through the undergrowth, I came upon a large bird-nest fern (Asplenium Nidus) with several hen eggs carefully placed for setting. Later upon my return to the spot, there was a little brown hen sitting low upon the nest, hardly visible to the eye. Upon my approach I could see that she had a sharp eye on me and didn't intend to give herself away unless I appeared too inquisitive.
"Up to now she stood all my advances that her instinct would allow. But soon all hopes were abandoned. Off she flittered, over the ground in crippled gait, with her wings fluttering and calling out a clatter of alarm that soon brought two alarmed roosters scurrying to the scene. This only added noise and excitement to this stratagem put up by the little hen.
"To me his act of deception was plausible coming from a common hen. A few days later I returned to find that these actions were almost duplicated only more pronounced. This was repeated on several occasions until the eggs were hatched."

Paper Savers

Paper conservation is not idle talk at this Chevrolet plant, where paper is loaded with magnesium castings, sheet to Buffalo by truck, then baled and returned after unloading, so they can be used again. They make as many as five round trips before they are baled for use, then they are sold to paper mills for reprocessing. Pictured above, two men pack used paper cartons while a bale of "knocked down" cartons back from Buffalo, awaits further use. The picture was taken at the Chevrolet grey iron foundry, which ships magnesium castings to one of Chevrolet's three large plants in Buffalo, New York manufacturing Pratt & Whitney engines. Another Chevrolet plant follows the same procedure in shipping Pratt & Whitney cylinder heads to the engines. If new cartons were used each time, more than 220,000 square feet of paper would be consumed in this production. Divide the figure by five and see how large are the savings in waste paper, so vital to the war effort.

At the close of the school on Friday, Mrs. Earwood entertained the group at tea at her home. Announcement was made of the next meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. J. I. Freedman on Thursday, April 19 at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Thomas Bregger, cohostess. The topic for discussion at that time will be "Table Setting and Table Decorating" and each one attending is requested to bring a suggestion or an exhibit along these lines.

The high light of the affair was a personally conducted tour of Mrs. Earwood's studio and the display of her paintings, most of them landscapes, flower arrangements or still life pictures of Florida. Several in the group had been on display at Art Exhibits in Tampa and Tallahassee.

The woman's Home Demonstration Club conducted a two day sewing school at the Okaloosa Migratory Camp sewing room. Miss Bertha Hill Hausman, county home demonstration agent and Miss Joyce Bevis, state clothing specialist with headquarters at Tallahassee, conducted the school. A class of fifteen women from Belle Glade and South Bay took the instruction. Each day the school opened at 10:00 a. m. and closed at 3:30 p. m. with an hour at noon for lunch and social relaxation, each member bringing their own lunch.

Thursday Miss Bevis gave instructions and practice in the different seams and finishes for home sewing. A demonstration of the use of the pinking machine, the button hole attachment to the machine and how to care for, clean, and adjust the sewing machine was presented. Miss Bevis gave the button hole demonstration and Mrs. H. O. Earwood under instruction from Mrs. Bevis gave the cleaning and were prize winners in state contests. Those attending the school were Mrs. Wm. Guinnard, Mrs. C. C. Ganas, Mrs. Wm. T. Elder, Mrs. Roy A. Bair, Mrs. Luther Jones, Mrs. Howard L. Haney, Mrs. G. J. ## Industrial Promotion And Research in Palm Beach County—DeMoya

Pointing out that a carload of celery strippings has gone to the chop supply industry, the establishment of a plant to produce agar agar at Jensen Beach, P. P. DeMoya, President of the Palm Beach County Resources and Development Board called on the citizens of the County to plan for industrial development in the postwar period in a radio address over WJNO on Friday, March 16th.

Mr. DeMoya did not propose that our very valuable tourist industry be jeopardized, but suggested that high grade sports clothing, radios and electrical instruments, plastic manufacture, candy glazed fruits, preserving glass, pottery and ceramics, fine furniture, printing and publishing, building materials, and hand made products, precision tools, as some of the items to be considered.

Sand deposits on the lower coast suitable for glass making have been discovered, he said.

The Florida Belle Bean, an Everglades Experiment Station development was pointed to as a result of experimenting and research.

The research of the U. S. Sugar Corporation making it the biggest continental sugar producer; the lemon grass and molasses cattle feed and the starch factory are results of experiments, he said.

The Glades cattle industry with packing plants and cattle feed for dairies and our own cattle fattening are pointed to as a growing industry with major possibilities.

Ramie the wonder fibre now badly needed by the U. S. Navy has a bright future in the Glades, Mr. DeMoya said.

Lets make this a strong united county with high employment at high wage levels. To do this we must promote, advertise, exhibit and sell—promote the use of our natural resources.

"We must each and everyone individually and collectively, sell to the world, the advantages of Palm Beach County."

Question—Who was the king of the Jews who was ruling the world when Christ was born?

Answer—Not a king of Judah, but the Emperor of Rome, Caesar Augustus, was ruling from Palestine to the Atlantic Ocean, when Christ was born. (See Luke 2:1.)

Q.—Does some Bible verse not say that when the earth passes away the Ten Commandments will also?

A.—Just the opposite. Matthew 24:35 says: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but My words shall not pass away." The commandments are the words of God. Read also Luke 16:17 and Matthew 5:17, 18.

Q.—Which day is the Lord's day? Please give your opinion?

A.—My opinion is not worth much but God's Word is our source of truth on such subjects. Turn to Mark 2:28: "Therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath." It is clear, then, that the Sabbath is the Lord's day. Read also Isaiah 58:13, where the Lord calls the Sabbath "My holy day." This is what the Lord says about the Lord's day.

Q.—Did Jesus ever say that it is right to pay tithes?

A.—Yes. "Ye must, unto him, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye pay tithes of mint and anise and cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." Matthew 23:23. These men paid tithes even on garden herbs, but neglected other things. Jesus said that they ought to do both.

Q.—I heard a preacher say that we should not exalt Christ too much. What do you think about this?

A.—God has already "highly exalted Him, and given Him a name which is above every name: that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father." Philippians 2:9-11. In Hebrews 1:8, Christ is called "God" by the Father: "But said the Son He shall Thy throne. God, is for ever and ever, and thy service of righteousness is the service of Thy Kingdom."

Meet Aunt Emily...

ENEMY AGENT!

SUCH a nice little old lady, too! The last person in the world you'd suspect of having any truck with the enemy! Matter of fact, Aunt Emily doesn't realize it herself.

Aunt Emily, unfortunately, can't keep things to herself. Bursting with importance, she just has to tell her next-door neighbor that her nephew Jim of the Smith Engineers at overseas is coming home on a special 30-day furlough on the rotation plan.

In good faith her neighbor passes the news along to the grocer — and in due time this single bit of information comes to the ears of an enemy agent who knows how to use it to harm our victory drive.

Enemy agents, desperate and dangerous, may still be among us. The penalty of careless talk is great. Ships, war equipment, thousands of men, a crucial battle can yet be lost because of a single, unguarded remark you make today. Don't let our hard won victories lull you into carelessness. Keep all vital information to yourself. Remember . . . what the enemy doesn't know won't hurt you, or your country!
